

Warren Weir is the Coordinator of Graduate Aboriginal Business Education, and Assistant Professor in the Department of Management, Edwards School of Business, University of Saskatchewan. Professor Weir teaches the Indigenous Management Courses offered within the larger MBA Program. He specializes in Aboriginal organization and management and Indigenous Community, Business, and Economic Development. He has worked with a number of Canadian universities on their Indigenous Management programming. He has studied at the University of Victoria, University of Saskatchewan, and the University of the West Indies. Warren is an active member of the Council for the Advancement of Native Development Officers (CANDO), and is currently on the editorial board of CANDO's Journal of Aboriginal Economic Development. His current research interests include Aboriginal small business and entrepreneurship. He has been a member of CCSBE for the past 5 years, and is a past recipient of the Brian Farlinger award in 2003. He was the Prairie representative on the CCSBE board from 2004-2006.

Warren Weir
Assistant Professor (Management), and
Coordinator: Graduate Aboriginal Business Education
N. Murray Edwards School of Business
University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, SK
306-966-2468

Planning for the future for Aboriginal peoples is the same process as planning for the future of Saskatchewan as a Province. Blaine Favel (Saskatchewan and Aboriginal Peoples in the 21st Century: 1997)